Alpine huts

The Fribourg Pre-Alps are dotted with over 1,200 alpine huts, traditional mountain farmhouses. While some provide accommodation, others offer their guests a chance to watch Gruyère d'alpage AOP being made, and most serve samples of local home-grown produce and specialties. Their traditional wood-shingle ("tavillon") roofs are now considered as part of the region's cultural heritage.

www.fribourgregion.ch/alpine

Désalpe

The "Désalpe" is the best-known of all traditional mountain festivities. After more than four months of grazing in alpine pastures, cows make their way down to the plain. You will see the "armaillis" dressed in "bredzons" and their ladies in "dzaquil-lons". As for the cows, thundering bells will be hanging from their necks and brightly coloured flowers on their heads. Traditional music and a market with local produce complete the celebration.

Folk market

Every Thursday in July and August, the center of Bulle is transformed into a giant outdoor folk market.
